In the Spotlight: Brigid Fernandez

Brigid Fernandez joined the firm in 2009 and in a very short time has made her presence known in the elder law community. Her unique combination of education and experience makes her a strong advocate for her clients and a valuable associate to the firm.

Brigid has always had a passion for helping people and that passion first led her to become a social worker. She has a Bachelors and Masters Degree in Social Work from the University of Missouri-Columbia and is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. She worked for nearly twenty years as a Medical Social Worker in an area hospital advocating for the rights of persons dealing with illnesses and disabilities within the healthcare system. Brigid pursued a law degree to continue her advocacy which makes elder practice a natural fit and allows Brigid to use her abilities in helping others.

While attending law school, she worked as a legal intern in the Saint Louis University Legal Clinics and successfully tried her first case as a third year law student. She graduated from Saint Louis University School of Law in 2006 where she received the David Grant Student Attorney Award for her commitment to public service and the Academic Excellence Award for the highest grade in Legal Profession.

During law school and after graduation, she worked at a well-known personal injury law firm, with a focus on medical malpractice and personal injury litigation. She was also a law clerk for the Honorable Booker T. Shaw in the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District.

She is a Board Member for several organizations including the Huntington's Disease Society of America—St. Louis Chapter, the Long Term Care Ombudsman Program and the Life Care Planning Law Firms Association. Brigid is a member of The Missouri Bar and the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis. Her other professional affiliations include: Member of the Women Lawyers' Association of Greater St. Louis, Member of the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys-Missouri Chapter, the National Association of Social Workers and the Society for Social Work Leadership in Healthcare.

She is a speaker and presenter for various professionals including financial advisors, social workers and healthcare workers. She speaks to and on behalf of seniors in the community at events including senior fairs, conferences and nursing home support groups. Her passion for healthcare shows in her work. Brigid has organized the National Health Care Decisions Day, in cooperation with the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis for the last four years. Brigid has served on the Missouri Bar committee to revise and update the Missouri Bar healthcare directive form.

Brigid is a Certified Civil Mediator. Her areas of concentration include elder law, estate planning, life care planning, guardianships and conservatorships, Medicaid, long term care planning, special needs trusts and veterans benefits.

Brigid brings a unique perspective to her clients and to our firm because she is both a Licensed Clinical Social Worker and an attorney. She understands how hospitals and nursing homes work; she is familiar with families dealing with illness, long term planning and the numerous other issues our clients face. She not only understands their legal issues, the complex legal system, but is compassionate and takes a personal interest with each individual client and their families.

Brigid is married to Tom Fernandez who is the Athletic Director at Chaminade College Preparatory School. They have two children who are currently attending college.

The Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act of 2011

On November 15th, the Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act of 2011 was introduced with Bi-partisan support in the House (HR.3423) by Congressman Ander Crenshaw (R-FL) and Congresswoman Cathy McMorris Rodgers (R-WA), and in the Senate (S.1872) by Senators Robert Casey, Jr. (D-PA) and Richard Burr (R-NC). The ABLE Act would amend Section 529 of the Internal Revenue Service Code to allow individuals with disabilities and their families to deposit earnings into tax-exempt savings accounts.

The ABLE Act aims to change the tax code to allow for tax advantaged savings accounts for individuals with disabilities for certain expenses like education, housing and transportation. By creating ABLE accounts, this bill would let families plan and save secure funding for disability-related expenses on behalf of designated beneficiaries with disabilities that will supplement, but not replace, benefits provided through private insurances, the Medicaid program, the Supplemental Security Income program, the beneficiary's employment and other sources.

Qualified disability expenses would include: school tuition and related educational materials, expenses for securing and maintaining a primary residence, transportation, employment supports, health prevention and wellness costs, assistive technology, personal support and various miscellaneous expenses associated with independent living.

In 2009 a similar ABLE Act was submitted into Congress; however it was submitted too late into the congressional session and was not passed into law. At the time, the Special Needs Alliance supported the ABLE legislation in concept, although they raised a number of concerns about administration and accountability, including the potential for abuse and exploitation. There were concerns that there were many individuals who could not and do not take advantage of Special Needs Trust laws due to the small amounts of money which may be involved and the high costs of establishing Special Needs Trusts.

Martha C. Brown & Associates, LLC take a similar stance with this new Able Act. While the ABLE Act looks and appears to be a very good piece of legislation, there are a number of issues that still remain with the wording of the bill itself. There were some "fixes" or "corrections" that the sponsors allowed at the eleventh hour before filing of the Bills. However, they only improve the ABLE Act for 32 states, not including Illinois & Missouri. They were left off since neither state tie Medicaid directly to SSI (Illinois & Missouri are 209(b) States). We hope these issues can be resolved in Congress; however many of these issues will require the individual states to have independent legislative action, otherwise the bill may not offer any protection for those who need it.

The ABLE act should not be viewed as substantially the same as the traditional 1st party or 3rd party Special Needs Trusts.

Some examples:

- (1) ABLE is much more limited on how you can spend the money than a traditional 1st party or 3rd party Special Needs Trust. Future regulations may expand or clarify expenditure issues;
- (2) Reporting requirements to the federal government is another issue. The ABLE requirements vary from a 3rd party Special Needs Trust. If there is no guardianship set up and the individual is not a minor, ABLE requires much more reporting than a 1st party Special Needs Trust;
- (3) Able has a payback (reimbursement) requirement to the state(s) when the beneficiary dies for all that the state(s) has paid, unlike a 3rd party Special Needs Trust where the remainder stays with the family. This can be left to the parents if they survive the child with special needs, the other children or grandchildren, to organizations that provided for the child or to individuals who cared for the child.

This legislation is a good start to provide a more cost effective alternative to Special Needs Trusts for smaller sums of money. Hopefully the legislation will be expanded so that Missouri citizens can participate.

If you would like further information regarding the ABLE Act, please contact our office at 314-962-0186.
